A SIMPLE QUESTION - SEZ WHO!

The New Hampshire primary, Tuesday, proved only that this is an election year; that every candidate is a knight in shining armor, or a bum, depending on who's talking; every golden-voiced mike jockey on the boob tube is a political analyst of great accuracy and renown (in his own mind); and pollsters have an instant new poll ready to prove that every prediction which turned out wrong was right.

Specifically, in New Hampshire, the Democrat presidential hopefuls shaped up like this: Muskie, who had said that he would withdraw if he received less than 50% of his party's vote, received 47% and is not going to withdraw, interpreting the vote to mean that he is the people's choice for president and that he, representing justice and right, will prevail at the end of the long road ahead.

McGovern, who surprised one and all with 30% of the vote, is, by his own admission, riding a great avalanche of public support that will carry him to the presidency; Yorty is obviously the people's choice since he got 8% of his party vote; a couple of others, Hartke and Coll, just as obviously have only begun to fight.

As for the Republicans, McClosky, who has been carrying the torch of truth in opposition to the evil forces of the Nixon administration, received 19% of New Hampshire's Republican vote which caused him to reconsider previous statements that anything less than 20% would result in his withdrawing from the race; Ashbrook, who by his own admission, represents the real Republicans, got 10% of the vote.

This left 70% of the Republican vote to the Republican incumbent, President Nixon, which represented a landslide to the friends of Nixon, but is being interpreted by those who are not the friends of Nixon, as a smashing defeat, since it is a lower percentage than he received four years ago.

And now, the road show moves to Florida where, once again, everyone will win and the same everyones will lose, depending on who's talking.

Which gets us around to the only logical approach that the American voter can take in this election year of 1972 - pay attention to what's being said and what's being written, but as you listen and as you read, keep just one simple comparative question in mind - a question that should be applied to every political statement:

OLD WEST AS IT NEVER WAS AS JACKASS MAIL HITS THE TRAIL

Along The Emigrant Trail

Historical facts will be fractured to some extent when the Jackass Mail makes its 11th run from Porterville to Springville, March 25, however there was an authentic Jackass Mail 115 years ago - the San Antonio and San Diego Mail line that offered regular twice-a-month service between Texas and California.

This line was referred to as the Jackass Mail since its stage coaches were pulled by mules, and since passengers were transferred to the backs of mules for a 100-mile-section of the route across the Colorado desert.

The 1972 version, as produced by non-existent committees of the Porterville and Springville chambers of commerce, will leave the Porterville city hall at 8:30 a.m., or thereabouts, on Saturday, March 25, and will arrive at Springville about sundown.

Enroute up the 190 trail will be a lunch stop "someplace along the middle fork of the Tule river" where a barbecue beef and beans meal will be served by the Tulare County CowBelles.

Following delivery of the mail at the Springville post office, a fish fry is set for the Springville Rodeo arena, with members of the Springville-Sierra Rodeo association in charge.

No sign-up is necessary for the Jackass Mail run; no entry fees are charged. Actually only three official units are in the run - the mail wagon, a committee wagon, and a band wagon. All other participants ride or drive by their own volition and at their own risk; only horseback riders and horse-drawn vehicles are allowed to move in the Mail line.

Last year nearly 700 persons were served at the noon lunch stop - riders, teamsters, and those who were unable to stand the rigors of the trail but traveled by horseless carriage to join the trail tramps, saddle bums, and lovely ladies in their noon repast.

Jackass Mail stamps are on sale at the Porterville chamber of commerce, and at business emporiums in Porterville and Springville. Official mail boxes are located at the Porterville chamber office, and at Springville Hardware in Springville.

A letter bearing a Jackass Mail stamp (priced at four bits) plus proper U.S. postage, and mailed in one of the official Jackass Mail boxes will be carried by horse-drawn mail wagon from Porterville to Springville, then sent by regular mail to any address in the world.

Last year Jackass Mail letters were mailed throughout the United States and into several foreign countries, many going to men and women in the military service.

According to the 1972 Jackass Mail wagonmaster, who has not as yet been appointed, "great festivities will mark the leaving and arrival of the Mail, and at all points along the trail enroute, with those peerless musicians of the Porterville Elks' band providing music of exquisite tonal quality, played with more than surpassing technical skill."

The Jackass Mail run, which originated in Porterville's Centennial year - 1961 - as "A Stage Coach to Springville" is held each year one week prior to the Springville-Sierra rodeo, this year set for April 1-2.

During the Mail run representatives of the Humane society will patrol the route.

FORMER SADDLE bum who rode the hoot owl trail with the Porterville Centennial contingent, and several trails since, including the Jackass Mail, namely Hank Burford, is in town this week, visiting relatives and extolling the virtues of the community college system in Oregon. Hank, former KTIP newsman, and former manager of the Porterville chamber of commerce, is now in charge of community services at Mount Hood Community College, located in the Portland suburb of Gresham. . . Another former saddle bum, Big Red Isom, is now operating as a newsman out of the boob tube at KFSN TV, Fresno. . . Hank doesn't expect to make the mail run March 25, but certainly Big Red will be back, with camera in hand, to cover an event of such obvious historic magnitude.

DAN FIGUEROA, a chairman of a special committee of the Greater Porterville Merchants' committee, is getting facts and figures together on a tree-planting project in the downtown Porterville business area, specifically along Main street. Although there has been big talk with little action for years concerning such a project, now appears to be an appropriate time to get something done, if something is going to be done, what with Main street about to be remodelled to accommodate a one-way traffic pattern. . . Having been asked by no one for an opinion, we herewith state that if trees are planted, let's go all the way - uniform - colorful - big - and growing in the ground, not planted in boxes.

NEW BEET-FREE SCHEDULES ARE ESTABLISHED

LOS ANGELES - Establishment of beet-free periods in the San Joaquin valley appears to be the only reliable method available to growers for controlling sugar beet virus diseases according to Jack Cardwell, president of district 6 of the California Beet Growers association.

District 6, which includes Fresno, Tulare, Kings, Madera, and Merced counties, had a disappointing 1971 crop, said Cardwell, due largely to widespread infestation of virus yellows and mosaic.

The district is now divided into five separate areas, each with its own planting and harvesting dates. Included on the seven-man Beet Free committee are Less Guthrie of Porterville and Bob Wilbur of Tulare.

THE JOB HANDLERS

Homelite's rotary mowers have some special features which will help you do a better job of mowing your lawn. We don't just put four wheels at the corners like most of our competitors. We've staggered the wheels to do a better job so you can cut right up to the edge of a garden or close to a wall.

On the left side the wheels are placed so the mower deck extends up to two inches beyond the wheels.

On the right hand side, we put the front wheel further back. This benefits you two ways. The clippings are discharged from the front of the mower safely, away from you. Also, the wheel supports the middle of the mower and helps prevent scalping uneven areas.

Self-Propelled Homelite rotary mowers have rear wheel drive. This gives you better traction, and for easy maneuverability, the drive control is a bar the width of the handle bar, easy to reach when you want to stop or go.

Homelite gets you started quickly and easily with electric start models. All you do is set the throttle and turn the key. Or, choose one of our manual start models. Easy Spin™ starting, with straight up pull, and automatic choke make it as easy as possible. We've even thought of storage and transportation. The handle folds down so they'll fit in the corner of your garage or the trunk of your car.

STATE, COUNTY OFFICIALS BEGIN MEALYBUG ATTACK

SACRAMENTO — An immediate three-pronged attack is being mounted against the highly destructive Comstock mealybug in Tulare county, which currently poses a major threat to growers of fruit, nut and ornamental plants throughout the state, according to California Director of Agriculture Jerry W. Fielder.

Steps to halt the spread of this destructive pest will include chemical and biological means and quarantine procedures, Fielder said. University of California and the State and Tulare County Departments of Agriculture are cooperating on the integrated eradication program.

Survey work to further determine the specific limits of the infested area will be the first activity. Comstock mealybug infestation is now known to be in an area roughly 21 by 13 miles, running from Terra Bella north to Lindsay.

State Department of Agriculture and the Tulare County Agricultural department workers will spray mulberry trees in the area, three separate times this year, to control that number of generations as they emerge, and will contract with a commercial pest control applicator to spray infested commercial plantings.

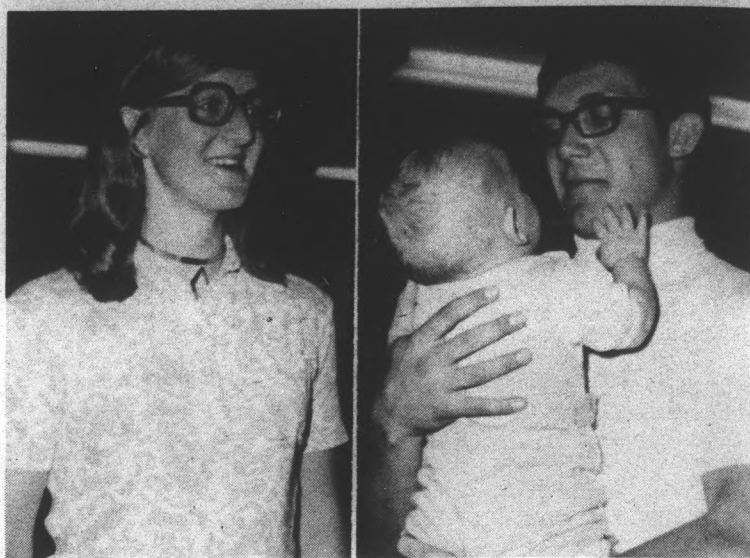

Quarantine regulations are contemplated which may include treatment of agricultural commodities and other items exposed to pest infestation, before they can be shipped out of the area.

State officials plan to lease a building in Porterville from which to carry on the chemical and quarantine programs; and a house trailer has been leased from the State Division of Highways, from which U.C. officials will carry on biological control research.

Comstock mealybug has a wide range of host plants, including citrus trees, almonds, apples, apricots, plums, pomegranates, avocados, grapes, sugar beets, beans, and melons.

NEW COTTON COMPACTOR, STACKER REDUCES HANDLING "BOTTLENECKS"

HANFORD — Cotton producers can save themselves as much as $24 per bale in harvesting, handling, and ginning by adopting a more efficient system of handling seed cotton according to officials of Cotton, Incorporated, a grower-sponsored research and marketing organization.

The major change, officials state, would involve use of new machinery that compacts and stacks cotton, either on the turnrow or on pallets, where it can be stored until scheduled for ginning.

Growers would use a newly-developed rick compactor or module builder, depending on geographic location. Both machines were developed by researchers at Texas Tech university and Texas A and M university.

The most important problem in traditional methods of getting seed cotton to the gin, according to J.K. Jones, manager of mechanization research for Cotton Incorporated, is the bottleneck created by inefficient use of trailers. Both the rick compactor and module builder can reduce these inefficiencies considerably, Jones stated.

Federal Land Bank Association Announces Cut In Interest Rates

TULARE — A report that outstanding loans totalled $45,113,468 to 1,076 farmers and ranchers, and that interest rates on loans have been reduced from eight to seven percent, highlighted annual meeting of the Federal Land Bank Association of Visalia, held February 25, in the TDES hall, Tulare.

Reelected to the board of directors were William H. Wake, of Dinuba, and Eugene Baker, of Visalia. President of the board is Art Falconer, of Porterville; vice president is John Burr Jr., of Lindsay; other hold-over director is Eugene Baker, of Visalia.

Falconer introduced guests of the association to the 550 stockholders present.

Burr gave the annual directors' report, stating that 124 loans had been approved from 129 applications received. Meeting 17 times during the year, directors approved eight million dollars in new loans. The association in Visalia may make loans up to $100,000 now without approval from the Berkeley office, Burr said.

Phillip S. Wright, manager of the farmer owned-operated cooperative, stated that the passage of the Farm Credit Act of 1971 was a tribute to Falconer, who appeared before congressional committees urging its approval in Washington, D.C.

Reminding the audience that by 1947, the stockholders had paid back to the federal government all of the grants and loans received by them, Wright continued to say that the Federal Land Bank associations are now self-supporting. The FLBA was established in 1916 and has had phenomenal growth in the Western United States. For 55 years, the associations have been the leaders in the farm mortgage field, he said.

DISSOLVING FOOD, BEVERAGE CONTAINERS

LOS ANGELES — With the growing use of bottles and containers for food and beverages, the California Milk Advisory board announces development of a plastic bottle that disintegrates harmlessly in tap water. The container will probably cost no more to produce than current non-returnable glass or plastic bottles.

Bass Derby Off To Excellent Start With Nine-Pound Registered Catch

PORTERVILLE — Porterville's Second Annual Bass Derby is off to an excellent start according to derby co-chairman Odie Nichols, operator of Success Market, with one bass registered at nine pounds, a full pound better than last year's winner.

Ron Pack of Gardena made the catch about 25 feet below the surface while trolling near the middle of the lake. Nichols said many fish are moving deeper and toward the middle of Lake Success where the water is warmer.

M&S Tackle Shop co-owner Ben Manlove reported a catch which probably would have exceeded last year's limit category, but the fisherman had neglected to purchase a registration ticket first. All fishermen must buy a registration ticket prior to making their catch in order to be eligible for the numerous cash and merchandise prizes being donated by Porterville merchants.

Tickets may be purchased at any of five locations: Success Market and M&S Tackle on Highway 190; The Sportsman, 50 N. Main; Don's Main Street Shell, 410 N. Main; or Thomas Realty, 816 W. Olive. M&S Tackle and Success are the two Derby weighing stations for the contest, which ends April 30.

Nursery

By John

There are so many things to do and plant now that it would be hopeless to even attempt a description of what is available. Instead we'll tell you how to find it after you get here. This is important because sometimes there are more customers than clerks and you can get lost in the shuffle.

Number one you'll notice that all plants in containers and those in the flats have plastic labels with colored name tapes. If the tape is orange the plant is for sun. If the tape is blue the plant requires afternoon shade. If the tape is green the plant requires full shade. This makes you an instant expert on where to plant which.

The plastic tags also give the common and scientific name of the plant plus the price. This is an additional aid to the customer who has always wanted to know but is afraid to ask. You will notice on the labels on container plants the letter "E" or "D." "E" indicates it is an evergreen plant that keeps its leaves all winter. "D" indicates a deciduous plant or one that drops its leaves. The letters "A" or "P" on the small started plants in flats refer to whether it is an annual or perennial. Annual living one year and perennial living permanently. We have large signs around the nursery which explain all this stuff.

If you are completely confused you may relax by attending the special performance of a master choir which has traveled all the way from Germany to give a concert March 15, 8:00 p.m. in the Memorial auditorium.

WARM WEATHER GIVES CITRUS GROVES A BOOST

VISALIA — Warm weather over the past several weeks has given citrus groves a considerable boost, according to Agricultural Commissioner Elvin Mankins.

Most other crops in the county are still in need of rain, he said. Most growers have already begun irrigating small grain fields, deciduous orchards, almonds, and vineyards.

Cotton and corn growers continue field preparation for planting. Alfalfa fields are making very good growth, said Mankins.

Tomatoes are now nearly all under white caps and are doing well.

Rangeland conditions are only fair, but grass is still green in most areas of the valley.
